

From the Principal

Ngā mihi mahana kia kotou

Before celebrating the many wonderful events and successes that the Marlborough Boys' College students, staff, parents and community have been part of, I wish to thank all members of the wider school community for the wonderful support of the college during this term.

Students and staff have been busy in academic programmes and in co/extra curricula opportunities including exchanges (Shirley Boys' and Nelson College), winter sport, and in preparing for choir events such as the Big Sing and the Senior Production (Young Frankenstein).

On Teacher Only Day (31 May), staff focused firstly on potential modifications to curriculum to support our students to be the best that they can be. Secondly, they attended a choice workshops designed to support teachers to provide different learning opportunities for students.

I wish to congratulate the Marlborough Youth Trust on the opening of their new facilities. Well done to all concerned on creating a great facility and programmes to support Marlborough Youth.

I had the privilege, along with Head Boy Ben Alexander of attending the All Boys' School New Zealand Annual Principal and Head Boy Conference in Wellington. A great learning and affirming opportunity. (See photo)

Next term is the busiest term for our international staff and programme. We have accepted numerous short stay groups in what is the northern hemisphere summer holiday period. The benefits to the school and its community are many fold. Have you considered having an overseas student in your home? We are looking for homes for students who are here anywhere from one week to one term. For more information see page 2.

Pink Shirt Day

On Friday 17 May, a lot of MBC turned 'pink'. The photo shows a group of Year 9 students from 9CHD embracing the opportunity to make the focus of our mufti day on Anti Bullying by wearing PINK.

Our peer supporters and prefects organised this as part of the efforts to reduce bullying within our school and in the wider community. Nationwide it was 'Bullying-Free NZ Week' and this event was held in conjunction with the Mental Health Foundation's 'Pink Shirt Day'.

The concept of a PINK type of Anti Bullying Day has its origin in Canada (2007). The original event was organised by two students who brought and distributed 50 pink shirts after a male ninth grade student was bullied for wearing a pink shirt during the first day of school. Since then, boys' and girls' groups around the world have organised similar events using PINK T-shirts to say "Bullying Stops Here". In 2012, the United Nations declared 4 May as International Anti-Bullying Day. Then in 2018, New Zealand celebrated Anti-Bullying Day on 18 May.

In a 2018 newspaper article entitled 'NZ Stand Strong', Auckland University's Associate Professor, Adolescent Health Researcher and Paediatrician, Dr Simon Denny, said bullying is an issue that's deeply ingrained in our schooling system.

Dr Denny says more is needed to help cut bullying rates in schools and across the country.

"We've got a long way to go if we're going to make a true impact on the rates of bullying in New Zealand," he says.
