welcome...

I feel very proud to be the seventh principal in the College's 116-year history and extend to you an invitation to become part of our College community.

This prospectus will help you to understand what services our College has to offer. It will tell you more about our goals, and the procedures that are in place to assist our students on their journey towards becoming Marlborough men and to be the best they can be.

The College motto, Virtutem Doctrina Parat, provides us with a focus for our endeavours. We set out to make every member of our learning community a leader of their own lives. At Marlborough Boys' College, pride and respect are key values that are constantly focused on. We encourage our students to recognize their responsibilities both to their own learning and as a member of the school community and to become fully involved in the activities offered in the school, be they academic, cultural, sporting, leadership, house or academic extension activities.

A major recent focus of the school is on raising expectations and academic achievement. Our goal is to have all students achieving to their academic potentials and are encouraged by the improved academic results in recent years. Academically, and in performance music, drama, art and sport, we have students excelling at the highest levels.

Our curriculum allows students to access a wide range of learning opportunities and multiple learning pathways. We have students undertaking diverse programmes designed to cater for their individual needs and abilities, including Gifted and Talented initiatives. There are programmes to support students aiming for excellence and scholarship, as well as programmes for students looking for entry to the trades or employment.

Marlborough Boys' College is proud of its relationships with the wider community. Our facilities are widely used and students benefit from outside involvement in the school especially in the support provided for sport, the arts, leadership and special programmes.

and the best that they can be

The College Mission Statement

Inspiring and educating the young men of Marlborough to fulfill their potential.

The College Vision Statement

To create for the young men of Marlborough an inspirational learning environment in which high expectations exist in all endeavours.

a history of quality education

The College opened in 1900 as Marlborough High School. In the mid-thirties the original single storey school was replaced with the existing two storey main block, now called The John Stewart Building. In 1919 the school changed its name to Marlborough College, and it continued as a co-educational establishment until 1963 when Marlborough Boys' College and Marlborough Girls' College were formed. The choice to go to single sex education was made following community consultation after population growth in the region made a second college in Blenheim a priority.

The school has changed in appearance over time with ongoing renovations and new buildings being built. In 1993 the Sir Gordon Bell Science Block opened. The John Stewart Block had extensive renovations completed in time for the 2000 Centenary. In 2003, the Goulding Sports Pavilion was completed. The new hall and music centre were completed in November 2004 and the school reception area upgrade was completed in 2007.

Following extensive community consultation, the Ministry of Education have decided to rebuild Marlborough Boys' and Girls' Colleges on a single new site. The schools will remain as separate entities but with some shared facilities. While the best concepts of single sex education will be retained, as occurs now some boys will have classes at the Girls' College and vice versa. It is planned to open both schools in 2021.

a co-operative effort

It is the aim of Marlborough Boys' College to initially provide a broadly based education for all students before focussing on the best educational outcomes for each student.

It is the aim of Marlborough Boys' College to provide a broad based education for all students before focusing on the specific educational pathways based on student aspiration for either tertiary or vocational based futures.

In the choice of electives or option subjects, every effort will be made to meet the wishes of students and parents. The College reserves the right to place or classify students. All students are placed into form groups in each year level at the beginning of the year.

Year 9 students are placed in their respective classes on the basis of information provided by the contributing schools and entrance tests given in the year before they enter the College. Throughout the school streaming occurs in some subjects.

Homework is an essential part of every student's programme. A homework notebook is expected to be used. Parents of Years 9 & 10 can assist the development of good study habits by checking their son's notebook and signing it each evening. In this way a very close check is kept on work required to be done. We encourage parental participation in learning and provide parent portal access to results and attendance. There are conference days when students and parents can meet individual teachers to talk through a student's progress.

To help students coming from our contributing schools to be as comfortable as possible with their 'new' school, there will be an information evening in Term 3 and programmed visits to the school in Term 4.
